

Focus On Results Schools in Massachusetts get Governor's Commendation for Improved Results

Massachusetts Governor Deval Patrick and state education officials released the 2010 school and district MCAS results and hailed the achievement of newly-named "Commendation Schools" across the state for their academic growth and continued success in closing achievement gaps. In addition, the high schools with the biggest combined increase in the percent of students scoring Proficient and Advanced were recognized.

These Commendation Schools have been using the FOCUS framework to drive their efforts at improved results and have received ongoing leadership coaching from a member of the FOR team. Congratulations to all of them for their hard work and dedication to improved student learning!
